GENERAL NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.

Burning of a Penitentiary at Brooklyn N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan 26—The shoe [illegible] of the Kings county penitentiary at Brooklyn [illegible] fire in a [illegible]. As soon as the [illegible] were discovered the prisoners were [illegible] quit work and [illegible] to [illegible] even [illegible] the machinery was in full operation [illegible] engineer in the lower part of the building was ignorant of the fire above. The prisoners had been at work about two hours and were promptly marched back to prison. Many were ignorant they were [illegible] the building. The shoe shop is separated from the penitentiary and stands about 50 feet north of it, but is surrounded by high stone walls. Some of the short term prisoners who simply had themselves sent up for the purpose of passing the winter were detailed to aid the keepers in extinguishing the fire. An alarm had been sent out in the meantime. The flames spread so rapidly that the keepers found their efforts to check them useless and turned their attention to saving [illegible] stock which they threw out of the window. The Bay State Shoe and Leather Company lease the prison labor, and they are therefore owners of all stock fixtures and machinery and the loss falls on them. The fire department hurried to the scene also the police reserves of the neighboring precincts. The prisoners were overjoyed especially the women, at the prospect of a season of idleness. "No more work" they shouted. Though the building was constructed of stone there was so much woodwork about it that the flames found plenty of fuel and volumes of smoke were seen pouring from the windows. The firemen worked to good advantage, but in spite of their efforts the building, which was a three story structure is entirely burned nothing being left at noon but the walls. It was erected two years ago and cost the county about $100 000. The Bay State Shoe and Leather Company had a very large stock on hand and they estimate their loss at $200,000. The insurance is $265 000 distributed among 50 companies.

Some Discouraging Figures on DeLesseps' Canal Scheme.

NEW YORK, Jan 26—The Commercial Bulletin has a statistical article showing that by the time the isthmus canal is opened the tonnage that may be expected to avail itself of the Darien route will amount to from two and a half to three millions yearly. This canal will cost $260 000 000 at least, interest on which would call for an annual net income for meeting all expenses of $15,600 000. Now, DeLesseps carefully considering what shipping could afford to pay, fixes his tolls at $3 per ton of vessel tonnage. Accepting this excessive rate, his total income upon three millions of tonnage would be $9 000 000, or $650,000 short of the interest charges to say nothing of the working expenses. To all men of business these facts will condemn the scheme as the wildest of financial impossibilities, and it is inconceivable how Paris bankers could employ their influence with the French public to foist upon them such a worthless investment. Lesseps here strikes a difficulty that he can by no possibilities of reasonable estimate surmount, and we cannot but think that when he comes to compare his sanguine hopes with the cool calculations of his financiers, he will subside into a state of disgusted disappointment.

Great Consolidation of Railroad Interests

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—The Commercial Bulletin, regarding the Pacific railroad combination, says: Great as is this union it is thought to be only the forerunner of a still larger one, which will take in the Wabash system of roads and possibly the Southern Pacific and Texas Pacific. It is not unlikely either that the Central Pacific will eventually come into the consolidation, that company as well as the Vanderbilt system of roads, being now in harmony with the Gould system which includes the roads yesterday consolidated, as well as roads known as the Wabash system.

A Bill Relative to Public School Lands in Nevada.

WASHINGTON Jan 26—Representative Daggett is preparing a bill to provide for the relinquishment by the general government of the unsold land sections heretofore granted to Nevada for school purposes and for a grant in lieu thereof of two million acres not mineral lands to be selected by the state in tracts of any size from unoccupied U S lands within her border. The lands heretofore donated aggregate between three and a half and four million, but owing to their mountainous situation or desert character, only about one hundred thousand acres have yet been sold, and consequently the school fund has derived scarcely any benefit from the grant. It is believed however, that if the state could be allowed to take up sage brush lands in large tracts, they can be sold to good advantage to parties who will undertake to utilize them by irrigation but who would not incur the risk and expense of attempting to bring water upon widely separated small tracts. The last Nevada legislature passed a bill authorizing this proposed change to be made whenever congress agrees to it. The commissioner of the general land office has also expressed himself in favor of the proposition and will recommend the passage of Daggett's bill.

Daggett also intends to introduce a bill for the encouragement of artesian well boring, but has deferred its preparation to await the receipt of some additional information on the subject, for which he has written to Nevada.

Fusionists Waiting for an Answer from the Court—The Republicans will go Ahead with Legislative Business.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

AUGUSTA Jan 26—[illegible] awaiting the judges' decision.

General Items

[illegible] the advisability of considering the fusionists [illegible].

The fusion senate met with seven members this morning and took a recess until 4 o'clock.

The republican programme as outlined this morning after hearing what the supreme court has to say regarding the fusionist statement to have [illegible] the dispersion of the fusionist government and [illegible] persists in exercising administrative or legislative functions to arrest him immediately. It is probable that the governor will give the fusionists at least 24 hours warning. The fusionists appear to have entirely lost heart and now only talk of an appeal to the people at the polls next autumn. It is expected that Wednesday will see the last of the dual government in Maine. It is reported that the fusionists employed the great seal to authenticate their document sent to the court at Bangor.

The Fusion Programme

AUGUSTA Jan 26—The fusionists seem to remain firm but will not attempt to transact business but will meet and adjourn from day to day until the decision of the court is received. Should it sustain the republicans most of them will take seats in the legislature. It is thought that every senator with the possible exception of one will take his seat. The legislature will enter at once on the dispatch of important business before them without further preliminaries. The troops will remain here until the matter is settled down to a peace basis.

A Sensible Resolution

Both branches of the republican legislature to day passed resolutions providing for a constitutional amendment electing a governor by a plurality instead of a majority vote.

Committees Appointed.

The senate appointed committees on investigation enlistments and enrolments of men and on the loss of the state seal.

Communistic Organizations in Maine

PORTLAND Me. Jan 26—The Press to morrow will publish an expose of the formation of circles of the Brick Pomeroy League in Maine with state circles devoted to communistic doctrines and now employed in endeavors to seize the state government. There are five cases known in Cumberland and some in York Knox and other counties. This organization is managed by advanced leaders of the greenback party and the mass of the greenback party are still ignorant of their existence.

A BOOM AGAINST THE CHINESE.

A Bill to Put a Heavy Tariff on their Principal Imports.

Rice, Nut Oil and Opium Affected by Measures to be Introduced by Representative Davis.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON Jan 25—Representative Horace Davis is preparing and will shortly introduce in congress two important revenue bills which indirectly have an interesting bearing on the Chinese question.

The first will provide for an increase of the tariff duty on foreign rice from the existing rate of 2½ cents per pound to 4 cents and for changing the present 20 per cent ad valorem duty on Chinese nut oil to a specific duty of 25 cents per gallon. Last year the total importation of rice to San Francisco amounted to 61 500 000 pounds of which 6 000,000 came from the Sandwich Islands under the reciprocity treaty free of duty and 55 000 000 pounds were from China, yielding a customs revenue of $1 375 000. The quantity of nut oil reported from China during the same period was 408 000 gallons, paying a duty of $43 000. Davis' bill in view of the fact that both of these articles now pay a very light tax and are consumed entirely by the Chinese who pay scarcely any taxes proposes such an augmentation of the tariff upon them as will increase the revenue collected at San Francisco $79 000 per annum from nut oil and $825 000 from Chinese rice. About 8 000 000 pounds of rice were imported last year at Atlantic ports mostly from other countries than China and it may be found advisable to confine the proposed increase of tariff duty to Chinese rice alone just as Manila hemp pays a larger rate than Russian hemp but it is doubtful if any serious opposition be made to an uniform increase on all foreign rice, in the line of protection to American rice and to our breadstuffs generally.

Davis' other bill will provide for imposing another internal tax of $3 or $4 per pound upon the manufacture in this country of smoking opium from the crude material. The imported manufactured article, worth from $8 to $10 per pound, now pays a customs duty of $6, whereas crude opium, which is worth $3 or $4 per pound, pays a duty of only $1 per pound, and as it takes two pounds of crude material to make one pound of smoking opium the government loses $4 revenue on every pound manufactured for smoking purposes in this country. Importations in 1878 aggregated 66,000 pounds of smoking opium and 300 000 pounds of crude opium. It is estimated that after making due allowances for the use of opium in medicines, that a revenue of at least $400,000 may be secured by levying the proposed tax upon its manufacture for smoking which will come into the United States treasury through the internal revenue bureau if the manufacture continues in this country or through our custom houses under the present rate of import duty if it be transferred to China. In either event the proposed legislation would not only benefit the treasury but would be a legitimate attack upon a pernicious vice and alike clearly within the dictation of good morals and the limitations of treaty provisions while at the same time the enactment of it and its accompanying measure would manifestly make the United States a less desirable place of residence for all Mongolians who consume the rice and oil and smoke the opium.

WEST INDIES.

Grant at Havana.

HAVANA, Jan 26—This is Mrs. Grant's birthday. General Callejas dined with the Grant party and the evening will be spent at the palace.

It is said that General Bright's division will be moved to Cabul before that time.

England's Attitude Toward Afghanistan

LONDON, Jan 26—A Cabul correspondent reports that Ayoob Khan left Herat for Ghuznee. A Times Cabul dispatch gives the substance of a scheme which the correspondent thinks will probably receive consideration at London and Calcutta. If the scheme is carried out the British troops will immediately withdraw to Jellalabad, and a proclamation will be issued stating that vengeance for the massacre of the British embassy at Cabul being satisfied, the army withdraws to Jellalabad leaving the Afghans to live under such a sovereign as they may elect. Until such a sovereign be firmly established the queen foregoes the right under the treaty of Gundamak to place an envoy at Cabul all communications with the Cabul government being in the mean time conducted by the queen's special agent. Pending a peaceful settlement of the country, Jellalabad and Candahar will be occupied by British troops. The queen will insist that the communication of the Afghan ruler with foreign governments shall be subject to her approval.

Comments on the German Army Bill

LONDON Jan 26—A dispatch from Paris says that the German military bill has produced some uneasiness there.

Mr Manning says that stock has not been faring well, but believes that the loss will not be as heavy as generally expected.

A new road is proposed between Linkville and Jacksonville, via McHanley's ranch on Little Butte creek. The proposed route would shorten the distance between Jacksonville and those points very much, would admit of travel nearly the entire year and has the further advantage of being comparatively level in contrast with the present roads to that section.

Jacksonville Times: Some of our farmers are already speeding the plow, but the ground is generally too wet for farming. A large crop will be put in everywhere weather permitting. The weather has been quite mild during the past week and stock is faring much better. The mortality has not been great as yet though it is in the early spring when cattle suffer most.

Southern Oregon Mines.

[From the Jacksonville Times.]

Plenty of water everywhere.

E F Walker has rented his mining claim on Grave creek to parties from California.

Theo Cameron reports the hydraulics in the vicinity of Uniontown all busily engaged, with favorable prospects.

Bybee & Fisher's ditch to the big bar of Rogue river is nearing completion. The firm expects to commence work on the diggings immediately.

A large slide in Wimer & Co's ditch near Waldo delayed operations, but the damage done was soon repaired and everything is now running smoothly.

Wm Healey reports the miners of Elliott creek at work again since the storms subsided. Several claims are being worked and more will be opened soon.

The Grand Applegate Company commenced piping on Saturday and is running day and night. Superintendent Fitzpatrick proposes making the best of the favorable opportunity presented.

From late advices from the Squaw Lake Company's diggings we learn that Superintendent Klippel expects to clear the ditch of slides this week and to commence piping immediately afterward.

This season promises to be the most favorable one the miners of Southern Oregon have experienced in many years. The supply of water is ample and promises to continue so for sometime to come.

The mild, frosty weather of sometime ago worked considerable damage to many ditches especially those built on unfavorable ground, to say nothing of the delay occasioned with water running to waste.

Sturgis Buckner & Co have eight hands at work on their claims in Jackson creek and are grinding [illegible] at a lively rate. They propose mining as long as water lasts making a general clean up when it begins to fail. The firm will put on a [illegible]

Eastern Washington.

Colfax [illegible] correspondence: Travel has commenced again quite briskly and business is improving. Hotel and restaurant keepers are in much better spirits. A few [illegible] wagons from Yakima have passed through. [illegible] The weather continues mild and [illegible] preparing the soil for spring [illegible]

ALASKA RIVERS.

Their Number and Characteristics—The Stickine—Sublime Alpine Scenery—An Alaska Canyon—Glacier Mud—Stupendous Glacial Phenomena

[illegible] in the San Francisco Bulletin.

Alaska is [illegible] a network of deep cool perennial streams that flow on ever [illegible] through mossy bogs and rock bound glacial canyons [illegible] everywhere [illegible] the way down to the sea. [illegible] are the clouds that [illegible] their [illegible]. Some thirty or forty rivers have been [illegible] in the territory, the number varying as the small ones have been called rivers or creeks by the map makers. [illegible] of them all from the mighty Yukon, 2000 miles long, to the shortest of the mountain torrents falling white from the glaciers, has [illegible] been explored. Dall, Kennicott and others have done good work. The Yukon and miners trappers and traders have been over most of the region in a rambling way and each have brought in detached bits of river knowledge which though too often misty and uncertain have been put together in maps that are better than nothing. The coast line in particular with the mouths and lower reaches of the rivers, has been fairly drawn but their upper courses are in great part invisible like mountains with their heads in a cloud. Perhaps about twenty of the Alaska rivers are a hundred miles or more in length.

The Yukon drains about as large an area as that drained by all the other streams of the territory combined, flowing through British territory for a distance of six or seven hundred miles in a general northwesterly direction then approaching the Alaska boundary near Fort Yukon it turns abruptly to the left and pursues a southwesterly course across the territory to Behring Sea in latitude about 62 30. It is a broad, majestic flood scarce at all interrupted by rapids nearly twenty miles wide in some places and navigable for light draft steamers about fifteen hundred miles—a noble companion of the great Mackenzie the two heading together in the smoothly sculptured Rocky Mountain plateau.

THE KUSKOQUIM

The largest of the rivers whose sources all lie within the bounds of Alaska is the Kuskoquim which flows into the bay of that name in lat 60° and is supposed to be about five or six hundred miles in length.

To the north of the Yukon delta a considerable number of short streams fall into Norton Sound Norton Bay and Kotzebue Sound. But from the northmost of this series around the shores of the Arctic ocean to the boundary line a distance of nearly a thousand miles there is only one river of considerable size the Colville which falls into the Arctic ocean in lat 70° 5', lon 150° 30.

Between the mouths of the Yukon and Mount St Elias creeks and rivers occur at short intervals, most of which flow quietly as they approach the sea through low bogs and beds of glacial drift. The principal streams are the Kuskoquim, Sushitno and Copper rivers. On the last mentioned which is supposed to be three or four hundred miles in length, rolled masses of native copper have been found. The Indians were acquainted with the metal before the advent of the whites, and probably obtained their supplies of it for the manufacture of knives and ornaments from mines located somewhere in the basin of this river. From St. Elias the coast mountains extend in a lofty unbroken chain beyond the southern boundary of the territory gashed with stupendous canyons, every one of which carries a majestic stream, deep enough and wide enough to be called a river though comparatively short drawing their sources from the glaciers back thirty or forty miles in the white solitude of the range. A few, however of this foaming brotherhood—the Chilcat, Chilcoot, Takoo and Stikine rivers—come from far beyond the coast range, though flowing across it through canyons cut for them by the glaciers heading in the broad Rocky mountain plateau, in company with the Mackenzie and the Yukon. The tributary canyons of the great trunk canyons of all these rivers are still occupied by glaciers which descend in glorious array on both sides, their massive bulging snouts back a little way in the shadows, or pushing grandly forward among the cotton woods of the banks of the streams, or blocking their way and compelling them to flow beneath the ice through long arching tunnels.

THE STICKINE—SUBLIME ALPINE PICTURES

The Stickine is perhaps better known than any other river in Alaska, because of its being the way back to the Cassiar gold mines. It is about 350 or 400 miles long and navigable for small steamers to Glenora 150 miles flowing first in a generally western direction through grassy, undulating plains, darkened here and there with patches of evergreens, then curving southward, and receiving numerous tributaries from the north it enters the coast range and sweeps across it to the sea through a Yosemite valley more than a hundred miles long, and one to three miles wide at the bottom and from five to eight thousand feet deep marvellously beautiful and inspiring from end to end. To the appreciative tourist sailing up the river through the midst of it all the canyon for a distance of about 110 miles is a gallery of sublime pictures an unbroken series of majestic mountains glaciers, falls cascades, forests, groves flowery garden spots, grassy meadows in endless variety of form and composition—furniture enough for a dozen Yosemites—while back of the walls and thousands of feet above them, innumerable peaks and spires and domes of ice and snow tower grandly into the sky. Sailing along the river the views change with magical rapidity. Wondrous too, are the changes dependent on the weather. Avalanches, from the heights booming and resounding from side to side storm winds from the Arctic highlands sweeping the canyon like a flood and filling the air with ice dust rocks glaciers, and forests, in spotless white. In spring the chanting of cascades the gentle breathing of warm winds the opening of leaves and flowers, birds building their nests hundred acre fields of wild roses coming into bloom and tangles of bramble and huckleberry swaths of birch and willow creeping up the lower slopes of the walls after the melting snow, massive cumuli piled about the highest peaks, gray rain clouds wreathing the outstanding brows and battlements of the walls. Then the breaking forth of the sun on it all the shining of the wet leaves and the river and the crystal spires of the glaciers the looming of the white domes in the azure the serene color grandeur morning and evening changing in glorious harmony through all the seasons and years.

AN ALASKA CANYON

It is not easy to begin anything like a full description where so great a multitude of tarrying objects crowd forward into view nevertheless I will try to draw a few suggestive outlines of this one representative canyon one of many hoping that those of my readers who are free may some day come and see for themselves.

Leaving Fort Wrangel on one of the small steamers that carry supplies to the mines you notice that the water of the bay is milky for miles out from the mouth of the river caused by glacier mud—the fine part of the grist ground from the rocks by hundreds of glaciers [illegible] Entering the river five or six miles from Wrangel the [illegible] islands of the [illegible] walls rise grandly to the sky with their ever [illegible] peaks 3000 to 5000 feet high with small glaciers between them [illegible] spires.

About [illegible] above the mouth of the [illegible]

anchorage for the [illegible] mostly bare like those of the Merced Yosemite. The granite too has the same neutral gray tone and the sculpture and general style of architecture are similar. Cascades are chanting everywhere [illegible] hanging in white ribbons from the upper [illegible] to the green levels of the river. On [illegible] massive rock front outlined with [illegible] I counted eight that formed a fine lace work beautifully relieved in the small green willows that fringe their edges. The largest [illegible] like the Yosemite Falls in the spring, pouring from the blue shattered edge of a glacier to the foot of the wall in a snowy plume two [illegible]

Thirty five miles above the mouth of the river the most striking object of all comes in sight. This is the lower expanded portion of the great glacier measuring about six miles around the snout pushed boldly forward into the middle of the valley among the trees while its sources are mostly hidden. It takes its rise in the heart of the range some thirty or forty miles away. Compared with this the Swiss mer de glace is a small thing. It is called the "Ice Mountain" and seems to have been regarded as a motionless mass created on the spot, like the rocks and trees about it without venturing a guess as to how or when. The front of the snout is about 300 feet high but rises rapidly back for a few miles to a height of about a thousand feet. Seen through gaps in the trees growing on one of its terminal moraines as one sails slowly along against the current, the marvelous beauty of the chasms and clustered pinnacles show to fine advantage in the sunshine but tame indeed must be the observer who is satisfied with so cheap a view.

INDIAN TRADITIONS—INDIAN TRADER.

On the opposite side of the river there is another large glacier flowing riverlike through the forested mountain bosses. Some 300 years ago these two glaciers, say the Indians, once pushed their snouts together and the river flowed beneath in a grand tunnel, through which they sometimes ventured in canoes. This tradition is interesting as containing a truth carried for hundreds of years without suffering much. That they did meet is undoubtedly true, though more than 300 years ago as the age of the spruces growing on the banks of the river show. Between the snouts of these two noble glaciers lives Choquette. Happy man—perhaps somewhat blind to his blessings. It was not without grave misgivings, he told me, that he ventured to build here fearing something would happen in connection with that strange ice mountain. He is an Indian trader, the only settler on the river up to within a few miles of Glenora. Some 35 miles above this place the Hudson Bay Company had a trading post, now abandoned.

MORE GLACIERS

The great glacier is hardly out of sight ere we come upon another of grand size, pouring a majestic white flood through the evergreens of the river level, while almost every hollow and tributary canyon contains a smaller one, according to the size of the area it drains, some like mere snow banks, others with the blue ice apparent depending in heavy bulging curves and graduating into the river-like forms that maze through the lower forested regions, and are so striking in appearance that they are admired even by the passing miners with gold dust in their eyes. I counted a hundred and sixty-one in sight from the river, but the whole number drained by the river throughout its entire course is probably 300 or more. A very short geological time ago this magnificent canyon was occupied by a grand trunk glacier that flowed to the sea, to which all these residual glaciers were united as tributaries.

A YOUNG WORLD.

The Stickine like all other rivers of Alaska, is still young and imperfect, like a half developed plant. The trunk is well formed, but the branches are only short stumps, slowly growing upward right and left over a hundred mountains as the glaciers melt back in compliance with climate. The trunks of some of the shorter rivers heading in the coast range are still as imperfect as the branches of the larger ones, while a few that are predestined to take their places in the general system have not yet commenced to flow. Over the region stretching from the north arm of Cross Sound towards Mount St Elias the glacial winter still rules. All the landscape is covered by a remnant of the ice sheet. When it melts the area of the sea will be somewhat extended, and several rivers added to the number already in existence.

A short time ago there was not a single river in Alaska.

Sicker than Blaine.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

The democrats will find that Mr Blaine is not so sick but that he can take care of himself. The absurd story they started that he was a party to an attempt to bribe a fusionist having failed, they next report him very sick. There will be sicker men than Blaine in the democratic party before the present trouble ends.

DRUGGED AND ROBBED

John Gray of Linn County Found Insensible on the Principal Street of Portland He is Conveyed to St. Vincent's Hospital Where he Dies

A CRIME UNREPORTED BY THE POLICE.

The following is taken from the Corvallis Gazette of the 23d inst. It is remarkable that a crime of such magnitude could have occurred here and have no been reported by the police authorities

Last Friday Mr J S [illegible] of this city was summoned to attend the funeral of his aged father who died [illegible] under very painful and suspicious circumstances in the city of Portland last week

The deceased John Gray a respected farmer of Linn county aged about years had been visiting a son in Eastern Oregon and was returning to his home in Linn Arriving at Portland by the Dalles boat on Friday night he stopped we believe at the Oregon hotel Next morning he was found by the police, on the street in front of the hotel in an insensible condition supposed to be under the influence of liquor and was conveyed to jail He remained in an unconscious state until Monday when he revived and sent for Frank Parton a relative who had him immediately conveyed to the St Vincent hospital where despite medical care and attention he died on the Wednesday following He knew nothing of how he came upon the street but says he was robbed of $15—all the money he had upon his person He was a man of the strictest morals and integrity and never touched strong drink which clearly shows that he had been drugged as well as robbed We learn that the matter is being worked up by detectives and it is to be sincerely hoped the guilt will be traced to its proper source and the perpetrators of the foul deed visited with the severest penalty of the law

The remains were brought up to Albany last Friday and buried on Saturday followed by a very large concourse of sorrowing friends

BOOK NOTICE.

"Nature's Revelations of Character, or Physiognomy Illustrated, by the eminent lecturer on physiognomy Dr J Simms is a large octavo book of 624 pages, profusely illustrated, neatly bound in muslin and sold at $3 50 Instead of temperament, we read about "forms" and the classification is evidently at first glance very superior to the old "bilious' style The entire body is taken into consideration in this new system of physiognomy The doctor tells how character is indicated by bone muscle, brain and nerves, abdomen and thorax Hair color laugh walk hand-shaking voice and manner are shown to express much that ordinary mortals have heretofore been compelled to learn by experience only, and that very imperfectly Here the gift and power is given to see ourselves and others in a true light Facial expression is claimed to be the result of continued habits of thought and action and not the cause of any mental trait nor is the face or brain recognized as the seat of any faculty Signs of character are more numerous and definite in the face though some traits may be shown by any and all parts of the body Large brains indicate great sensitiveness one who suffers and enjoys in the extreme is easily depressed or elated, and pays great attention to details, does not indicate great mental ability The secret of intellect is said to be in the equal proportion and strength of the various parts of man's entire structure Large heads are found in cold climates, and the size decreases toward the equator, this fact proves that climate has a greater influence in giving size to the head than all other causes The best intellects are found between extremes in climate and with medium size of head Hundreds of signs of character are given, many faculties have been discovered and defined that have heretofore been unrecognized and all have been named and formulated into a system The principles of this interesting and useful science are so plainly set forth by the able author as to be easily understood by all, and the signs are so evidently apparent that it seems strange they never were before observed The form of the ear denotes musical ability, the size and shape of the mouth tell of language Eyes well shaded by forehead and eyebrows indicate close observers Large noses betoken great activity and energy, etc

THE DEATH-RATE OF

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming the average of life being lessened every year without any reasonable cause death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin At this season of the year especially a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it, and often find too late that a Fever or Lung trouble has set in Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee s German Syrup been taken a cure would have resulted and a large bill from a doctor been avoided For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known

JASPER JOHNSON AGAIN

Accused of being an "Office Broker" at Washington

Some Queer Transactions Under Investigation Johnson said the Money was to go to Secretary McCrary

From the Washington Post February 1

About the [illegible] last December charges were preferred before Secretary McCrary against Jasper W Johnson a clerk in the war department who was charged [illegible] receiving a consideration for using his official [illegible] to get positions in the department. The charges were submitted by [illegible] J Lazenby, a well known [illegible] who stated that in January last his father [illegible] placed in the quartermaster general's office through Johnson's influence with McCrary, and that he paid $50 to Johnson for this service. He also charged Johnson with having occasioned Lazenby's dismissal when he found that there was no more money to be obtained. Although the matter was not of the jurisdiction of the department the alleged acts of Johnson having been committed before he was appointed to the service of the government Secretary McCrary ordered an investigation and appointed Mr H T Crosby chief clerk of the war department Major Thomas H Bradley and Mr George W Salter as a board to hear the evidence and try the case. These gentlemen have nearly completed their duties and will submit in a day or two their decision to Secretary Ramsey. Among those who have given testimony before the board are Mr Thomas A Lazenby formerly clerk to the police commission and John H Rollings a real estate broker on Thirteenth street near F and living on Twenty second street. Johnson is well known here having been for some time engaged in prosecuting Texan cattle depredation claims before congress. He has also been active in politics having attended as an earnest supporter of Greeley the convention at Cincinnati and afterwards helping to run the campaign.

He was found by a Post reporter yesterday afternoon in one of the corridors of the old navy department building and questioned as to the charges which had been brought against him. He was at first averse to saying anything feeling certain he said that in a day or two he would be vindicated by the action of the board. This backwardness he, however was soon induced to overcome and talked rapidly in answer to the questions propounded by the reporter.

"I regard the whole affair," he said "as an attempt to blackmail me. Indeed, I have letters in my pocket which will prove that such is the case."

"How came these accusations to be made against you?"

"I will give you the whole story. I was living in the latter part of 1878, with Mr John A Rollings, who then resided at No 2108 H street. I did not pay him any board for I was hard pressed for money. It was then understood though, that when I got my claims through congress I should make to his wife a handsome present. This of course I intended to do and will do yet. About the 1st of January of last year Mr Rollings said to me that his partner, Mr Thomas J Lazenby would like to have his father appointed to a clerkship. As I was under obligations to Rollings, I promised to try and do what I could. I was successful knowing Mr McCrary very well and Mr Lazenby secured a place in the quartermaster general's office. Shortly after this Mr Lazenby met me on the street and began speaking of what I had done for him, and before he left me put into my hands a sealed envelope. When he had gone I opened it and found a handsome present in the shape of a $50 note. I kept it of course, for I did not see anything improper in so doing."

"Did you ever receive any money from Thomas J. Lazenby?"

"No sir."

"And this $50 was merely a present, and not the payment of a sum agreed upon as a consideration for your influence?"

"Merely a present, nothing more. You see I had no scruples about keeping it, for Lazenby kept his place nine months, when, if it had not been for me, he would have been on the street doing nothing. Well, things remained this way for some time, until Rollings came to me and asked me to get his son Charlie a position. The family were then hard pressed for money, and I said I would do the best I could. I went to see Secretary McCrary, who promised to appoint the young man when there was a vacancy. At last Rollings suggested to me that McCrary could oust Lazenby and put Charlie in. So I went to the secretary and told him that if he could not do otherwise, to put young Rollings in the old gentleman's place. Nothing was done for a month, and then Mr McCrary told me that that was the only thing he could do, and told me to bring Rollings on the 1st of November and he would put him in office. Before this, in August, I had been appointed to a fourth class clerkship here, and so Rollings and his son came here to my room. We went together to the secretary, who then informed Rollings that there had been a more sweeping reduction than he anticipated, and, while Lazenby had lost his place, young Rollings could not be appointed, at least just then. I said to the secretary that this placed me in a bad fix, and he told Rollings that I had done all in my power to get his son appointed. Rollings, however, got mad with me, and accused me of not trying to get Charlie a place, and has since circulated ugly stories about me."

"Are you living with him now?"

"No, sir. I left because I did not care to be a burden any longer."

"Is the rumor that these claims of yours are fraudulent, true?"

"No, sir, the records will show that they are vouched for by the highest authority. A bill to appoint a commission to settle them was passed by the house, and will be put through the senate. They amount to many millions of dollars. That is my side of the story and I think the investigation will show that I have been accused without cause."

Mr Thomas A Lazenby, who is about sixty five years of age, was found by the Post in the Ebbit house lobby.

"My lips are sealed," he said when asked to talk about the matter. "I have given in my evidence and ought not to make it public."

"But you will consent to tell me," said the Post insinuatingly, "whether you ever presented Johnson with any money, as he says you did?"

"That is true in a sense. I gave him an envelope here in this lobby which I believed contained money, but it was only because my son told me to. I did not know what it was for."

"How did you first meet Johnson?" pursued the Post.

"He was introduced to me by John A Rollings as a man who represented eighty-two million dollars' worth of claims. But since that introduction I have not met him three times."

"Then you know nothing about how your appointment was obtained?"

"Nothing at all. My son knows all about it and managed the matter."

Mr Thomas J Lazenby was then sought and, being found, became at once the subject of an interview.

"In January, 1879," he stated "I agreed with Johnson to pay him $200 to get a position for my father. He had already procured a place for J M Knowles who resided with his mother on F street, between Sixth and Seventh streets who was to pay him the same amount. Knowles could not fill the duties required of him and he was dropped although I was given to understand that the real reason was because he could not pay Johnson the sum required. I then told Johnson that if he would get the place for my father I would pay him the same amount. He agreed and my father received the appointment. This was made out by Secretary McCrary at his home one night and my father when he went down to take his position had to write out his application. I paid $50 down in cash and since then smaller sums swelling the amount to about $75. I also authorized the sale of some bonds to secure the other $150. These were not however sold as the party who was to buy them left town. If he had not I would have paid him the money long ago. He told me that he did not want it for himself but that it was to go to Secretary McCrary to [illegible] for printing and other expenses [illegible] his presidential prospects. I have [illegible] other positions [illegible] I am interested."

These were the points of Lazenby's statement which was very [illegible]. Mr John A Rollings was then interviewed. His [illegible] was merely a reiteration of the above [illegible] except that he claimed that Johnson owed him eighteen months' rent and [illegible] [illegible] made [illegible] ter

A SPLENDID REGION.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR IMMIGRANTS

Description of Unoccupied Farming and Stock Lands in Northeastern Wasco

[illegible] Jan 2 1880

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I frequently see in your paper descriptive articles from different parts of our wide [illegible] [illegible] The Spokane Palouse and W[illegible] countries have had their [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] men of emigration for the last few years [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] vantages for the farmer and stock raiser [illegible] point of soil timber and water and excel [illegible] them [illegible] location. But it is not my purpose to disparage [illegible] of those sections [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] little information [illegible] a great many who [illegible] [illegible] This country is situated at the [illegible] of the western spur of the Blue mountains in Wasco county reaching from the John Day river into Umatilla county and north to the Columbia river. It is one vast plateau containing at least 1,000 square miles containing arable lands sufficient for the wants of prosperous farmers. We have a very rich [illegible] the prairies, all covered with rich bunch grass capable of producing immense crops of all the smaller grains and making a very respectable showing of corn.

Vegetables of all kinds attain the greatest perfection. There is a vast amount of timber in the mountains pine fir and tamarack predominating while the streams are fringed with cottonwood alder and aspen. Springs of pure cold water bubble out in many places and where these are lacking, water has readily been found by digging.

There are many claims yet to be taken a few miles from rail timber and the only difficulty the settler will undergo in his selection is the vast amount of beautiful land to select from.

Messrs Whelan Smith & Holcomb have nearly completed a sawmill from which lumber can be obtained for from $10 to $12 per 1000 feet. These enterprising gentlemen are doing much to advance the early settlement of our country.

The social status of our people compares favorably with many older localities and in this respect we do not think the newcomer will have any reasonable cause of complaint.

Fruit does remarkably well from a strawberry to a peach. Peach trees have been known to bear in three years from the seed.

Our markets are not well established from the fact that our transportation facilities are limited but railroads are being pushed rapidly forward and all are sanguine that we will soon have direct communication with the east as the Utah Northern have a survey on either side of us. The railroad question is one which least concerns us as we feel sure to be near one soon.

In short we have a good country. I know of none offering greater inducements to the man in search of a home than this. I have conversed with many intelligent men that have visited all sections of this upper country and they are a unit in saying this is the best place for settlement that they are acquainted with. I do not see the propriety of the emigrant in passing through this favored locality without turning to the right or left and finally settling where the land is tossed and tumbled like a mighty wave of the ocean when there are thousands of level acres here. We do not wish to advise any as to the course they should pursue but only come and see for yourselves. There are a few stock men here who are not anxious to see the land taken up but as a general thing the emigrant will be cordially welcomed.

In this brief communication I have stated facts as I see them, individually and as many others see them. I have traveled over 17 states of our union and know of no other locality more favorable for the building up of a happy and healthy home than this. We are not drowned in perpetual rains stifled in fog nor pinched with cold. I feel assured that the enterprising and industrious will succeed.

The financial situation is devoid of features of special interest. Loanable funds are in fair supply and rates though not materially reduced are easy. Remittances from the interior come forward rather slowly giving rise to some complaints on part of merchants. The obstructions to transportation by reason of the heavy storms lately prevailing has greatly interrupted business and there ought to be some allowance made for those who are a little slow in meeting their obligations at this time. Business is in such a condition that a just leniency at this time on the part of creditors will be a great favor to debtors and enable all who are disposed to do the fair thing, to pass through the dull season which occurs between the closing of the winter and the opening of the spring trade without loss.

The markets to-day present but little upon which comment will throw light. Advices from all sources indicate a sort of uncertainty in the wheat trade which is producing the utmost dullness in the local market a few thousand bushels embracing transactions for several days past. This dullness is peculiarly a feature of the market since the middle of last week when the decline began which to-day culminated in offers by some buyers and shippers at $1 80 while others quietly drew out of the market and refuse to give quotations at all. This drop, however is not fully warranted by dispatches from abroad and is attributed by some to a speculative movement. One thing is certain—that it is not due to the scarcity of tonnage or advance in freights as shippers are disinclined to take up vessels at a figure which they would have been too eager to obtain a few weeks ago. A wooden vessel now at hand recently held at over 60s is now reported on the market at [illegible] less without a taker. Holders of wheat however seem entirely willing to wait on events and there is no general pressure to sell.

Other products are in fair request at our ast quoted rates with a slightly weaker tendency in flour caused by the sharp decline in the raw material. Sales are slow.

SAN FRANCISCO PRODUCE MARKET

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 26—Wheat—The aspect of the market on change to day was dark and without a redeeming feature. Holders were apparently willing to make concessions but they met with no encouragement. For a round lot of good No 1, the highest bid obtained was $1 80. A sample of extra choice was offered at $1 90 without any response. It is but just to say that there was a noticeable absence of leading buyers whose presence might have given a brighter color to the situation.

LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION,

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5 000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pen d Oreille Division in Eastern Oregon which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the mouth of Snake River in Washington Territory to Lake Pen d Oreille in Idaho. These lands of unexcelled fertility and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company passed November 13th 1879 fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands, by any land grant company. This is in fact cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government under the pre emption act for the expense attending the making of final proof and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company.

Resolved. That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2 50 per acre with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting surveying and conveying said land.

This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road.

To persons wishing to purchase on time the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms. One fourth cash at time of purchase the balance in three equal yearly payments at 7 per cent interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company notices of intention to purchase or settlers applications as they are called for land in this Division except for the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued to reside upon or cultivate the land applied for, are requested to complete their purchase by making cash payment or time contract for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for have no right to the privilege of purchase such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have [illegible] and improved the Company's land [illegible] in securing the same [illegible] the land is subject to sale to any other person.

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
